

BERLIN HANDED MOST DEVASTATING ASSAULT IN THE HISTORY OF AERIAL WARFARE; ALSO DIVERSIONARY RAIDS

Attack is Twice as Heavy as Any Suffered by Nerve Center of Nazism Before—1500 to 2000 Tons of High Explosive and Incendiary Bombs Are Dropped on Berlin Alone.

(By International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 24.—In what London observers termed the "beginning of the battle of Berlin," the RAF last night handed the German capital one of the most devastating assaults in the history of aerial warfare and its heaviest blow of this war.

An official Air Ministry announcement today admitted the loss of 58 bombers and one fighter, but claimed that between 1500 and 2000 tons of high explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped on Berlin alone. The raids also included diversionary sweeps by intruder aircraft on airfields in Germany and occupied Europe.

The attack on Berlin was twice as heavy as any suffered by the nerve center of Nazism before.

Berlin reports said that 50 Allied planes were shot down during the course of raids on Berlin and other objectives in Northern Germany and made its usual statement of damage to residential quarters. A later Berlin broadcast claimed destruction of 60 Allied raiders.

Authoritative quarters in England declared that no American planes participated in the night attack.

Mrs. John Flood Heads New Hope Area Drive

NEW HOPE, Aug. 24.—The third U. S. war loan drive is being organized in New Hope-Solebury-Upper Makefield area with Mrs. John Flood as chairman. The drive begins September 9th and continues for the next four weeks, during which time a booth will be maintained daily on the steps of the Solebury bank.

The committee assisting Mrs. Flood includes Mrs. Henrietta Cunningham and Mrs. Marshall Cole in charge of manning the booths; Mrs. A. Blondheim as consultant for the booths; Miss Schermerhorn and Mrs. John Carson as accountants; Mrs. Everett Miller in charge of window displays, and Mrs. S. A. Jacobson in charge of publicity.

Kenneth Herrmann Starts Training, Earlier Date

The listing of Kenneth E. Herrmann, 18, of 718 Wood street, among the selectees leaving yesterday morning for training at Fort Meade, Md., was in error, according to Local Selective Service Board No. 1.

Herrmann left here on August 17th for basic training as an aviation cadet student at Greensboro, N. C.

The localite commenced training previous to those listed in August's quota by Bristol board by virtue of the fact, as stated by the board, that he had applied at a recruiting station for training as an aviation cadet. Found acceptable he was directed to report to his local board, volunteering his services within 30 days.

The affair was arranged by Mrs. White's niece and nephews.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Green and Miss Doris Green, Bristol; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Green and daughter Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Green and children, Louis and Mary Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morgan and son Richard, and Mr. and Mrs. William Mathison, Trenton, N. J.

FIGHTER PILOTS ARE ANXIOUS FOR ACTION

Quiet, Impressive Enthusiasm is Displayed by Young Men

ABOARD A TRANSPORT PLANE in West Africa, Aug. 24.—(INS)—Our big Douglas is plowing steadily through gray clouds and grayer dust hanging low over the desolate desert and the only real activity aboard is a poker game down near the tail. A poker game which is intermittently noisy.

"Is that what they call desert down there?" asked Lieut. Fred Devenney, fighter pilot from Omaha, Neb., sitting on the adjoining "bucket" seat.

"Yep, that's part of the great Sahara."

"Looks a lot like Arizona—we did some of our training out there," said Fred. "Only real difference is no cactus here—plenty out there."

We're heading north to the wars. Most of these boys are fighter pilots from the U. S., bound for combat. Bound eagerly for combat. Not a flashy, loud type of enthusiasm these boys display for the tough job ahead—just a quiet, impressive enthusiasm.

The poker clientele has increased. So has the noise. As though to help drown out the players, the engines on the Douglas have "revved" up somewhat.

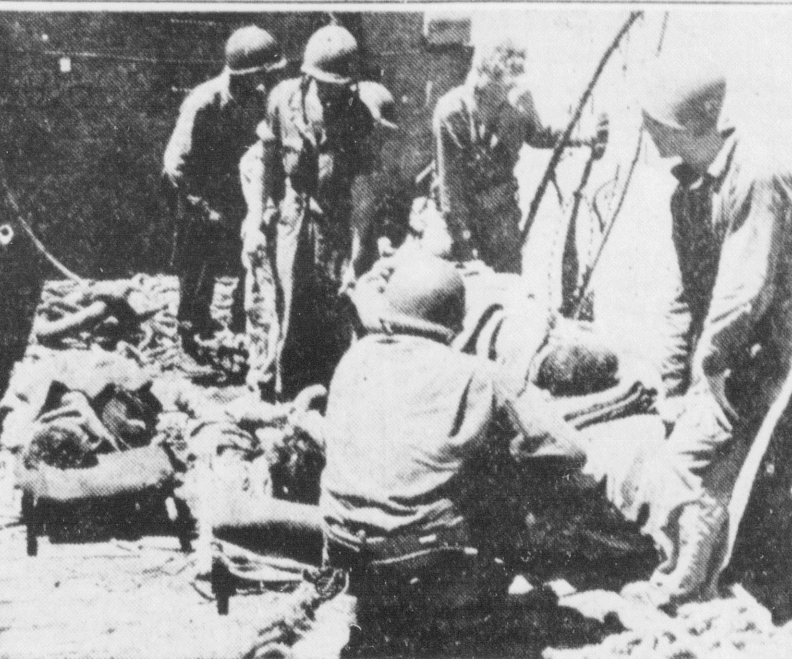

Oh, yes, enthusiasm—that was our subject. Enthusiasm for the combat job ahead. Stubby, curly-haired Lieut. Edwin R. English, of Leesburg, Fla., is one of the fighter boys. Right now he's sitting on the side of the little metal ladder which we attach under the door to dismount from the plane. He's holding a poker hand. He's grinning and his thoughts are far from war. But last night, in barracks A-13, he was serious.

"Most of us are really anxious to get into combat," he said. "That's what we joined the air corps for. Seemed like they'd never send us overseas. Always somewhere for additional training. On our way now. Anxious to pitch in and help get this business over."

The poker game has broken up now for good cause—eats. Lieut. St. John Smith of Boston, Mass. (30 Mt. Vernon street) just opened a box and is tossing each of us a sack with sandwiches, an apple and

45,629 IN BUCKS CO. ELIGIBLE TO VOTE

30,702 Republicans and 13,168 Democrats Properly Registered

1655 NON-PARTISAN

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 24.—There are 30,702 Republicans and a total of 13,168 Democrats in Bucks County who will be able to exercise their franchise when primary election day comes around next month, the office of the Registration Commission announces. In addition, 1655 are registered non-partisan and a total of 104 in the other minor parties.

These figures represent a decrease in the number of voters registered as compared to the records as of October 14, 1942, which were 33,576 Republican 15,400 Democrat, 1911 non-partisan and 124 other minor parties.

The sharp drop can be accounted for, in part at least, by the fact that the two year delinquent voter survey has been made since the October, 1942, check and a total of 6223 voters' registrations were cancelled in April of this year as a result.

Added to this, the July registration period, when traveling boards sat throughout the county for the purpose of registering voters, brought forth what the Registration Office terms "a rather light registration," a total of only 1693 registrants. These were 1299 Republican, 334 Democrat, 63 non-partisan and one minor party.

Death and removals account in part for the decrease too.

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Klerman (I. N. S. Staff Writer)

Well, a week ago Saturday, Chester Bowles told the East it could expect more gasoline in two weeks and today, by golly, New York hasn't got any!

If this gas situation isn't the screwiest, craziest, messed up, non-explainable, triple yip stupidity of the war I'd like to know what is.

It's the most consistently bungled, mishandled misjudged mess of them all.

The wonder of it is that there are any automobiles on the roads at all.

And if the black market was knocked off there'd be fewer than there are.

Nobody could deliberately set out to take every automobile in the East off the roads and do half as well as this piliated administration of the gas situation has done.

Give a high school boy the figures on our daily production of gasoline and the needs of the armed services and he could tell you in two minutes what's left for the civilian. Washington can't.

SHORTAGE OF FIREMEN EXISTS IN MORRISVILLE

25 Members Are Now In The Armed Forces of Their Country

GET A RESUSCITATOR

MORRISVILLE, Aug. 24.—The Capitol View Fire Company has 25 members in the armed forces and the shortage of men in answering fire calls is being severely felt. This is especially true during the day, when most of the men are at their employment. Several times during the day recently there have been but two men to answer the call, whereas previously as many as 10 would respond.

A resuscitator has been added to the company's equipment, which has been extremely valuable in aiding in artificial respiration. One of a very few in these parts, the resuscitator is available at any time, and is carried in a portable on the fire truck. Although Falls Township does not get fire protection from the Morrisville companies the resuscitator may be used by them, or any other surrounding towns that do not have one available.

A new portable lighting system with a one-cylinder motor, which furnishes power for two or three floodlights is also owned by the Capitol View Company, and is used for night fires or rescue work.

There are at least 15 qualified first aid men in the company that are on hand in case of emergency, and the firemen also have a classified list of blood donors.

A game room has been constructed where ping pong, pool, cards and various other games are enjoyed by the men, and a blackout room in the back of the building in case of air raids, has been completed.

President of the Fire Company is Albert Roberts; vice-president, Richard Allen; secretary, John C. Whalen; treasurer, Leland Godwin; and financial secretary, Edward Roberts, Jr.

Cleveland Reed is the chief, with Marvin Allison foreman. The assistant foreman is James Wolf, and Roland Girton is second assistant. Charles Stokes is president of the board of trustees; Lawrence Newell, Sr., vice-president; John Whalen, secretary; Holmes T. Service and Charles Geanette make up the rest of the board.

The following committees are functioning for this year: Council, Marvin Allison, Charles Geanette, Cleveland Reed; flag and grave markers, Fred Duke, Holmes Service, Cleveland Reed; defense, Charles Geanette, Roland Girton, Marvin Allison; first aid, Marvin Allison, Albert Roberts, Roland Girton; memorial service, the Rev. Francis H. Smith, Richard Allen, Roland Girton, John Tolt; uniforms, W. Edwards, Roland Girton, James Damico; ping pong.

Wrong "Church"

(By the "Stroller")

A devout Bristol woman, one who never fails to carry out the courtesies and customs she has been taught to follow in the church of her faith, was quite embarrassed a few days ago.

The woman in question entered a Bristol theatre and finding herself in a broad aisle, evidently subconsciously connected the place with church.

She quickly knelt, and as suddenly regained her feet—having turned all colors of the rainbow in the few seconds of time.

PRODUCTION STOPS AT BREWSTER; WLB IN APPEAL

Government Agency Asks Striking Employees To Return by Noon

NIGHT SHIFT OUT

Management Makes Formal Statement As To Cause of Stoppage

By International News Service

JOHNSVILLE, Aug. 24.—Aircraft production remained at a standstill today at the Brewster Aeronautical Corporation's Johnsville plant, as the War Labor Board in Washington appealed to striking employees to return to their work by noon.

Following a dispute over the "seniority rights" of plant guards to choose their own posts that resulted in arrest of four members of the Coast Guard (temporary) reserve for failure to report to their assigned stations, the entire day shift of about 3,000 employees walked out.

About 500 of the 1,500 workers on the night shift checked into the plant, officials said, but 430 checked out within 10 minutes.

Although approximately 1,500 non-production employees were reported on duty, Frederick Riebel, Jr., corporation president, said that "all airplane production has stopped."

In a formal statement, Riebel charged shop stewards of aircraft local 365, United Automobile Workers of America, CIO, with ordering the walkout.

Riebel stated that following arrest of the guards, the shop committee and stewards of the local met, after which the stewards circulated throughout the plant and called out the workers in protest against the Coast Guard action, because the Brewster guards are also members of the union.

Officials of the union, however, continued to insist no strike was called, declaring the workers simply "quit working for Brewster."

In its back to work appeal the WLB avoided all mention of the arrest of the four guards and adopted the position that the strike was caused by a dispute over contract negotiations.

Riebel also asserted that he talked by telephone to the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air, Artemus L. Gates, and that the latter told him "the War Labor Board at Washington will wire the union here to get back to work at once—or else."

Riebel said he did not know what Gates meant by "or else." It was recalled, however, that the Navy Department, under orders of President Roosevelt, had taken over the Johnsville plant and two other operated by the corporation in April, 1942, returning them a month later.

At the time, the stated reason for the seizure was failure to maintain delivery schedules of planes and "dissatisfaction with the management."

When the plants were returned, a new board of directors was named, at the insistence of the Navy Department.

Reports of production troubles persisted, however, and March 16 of

Ploesti Bombing Results in Suspension of Oil Exports

Stockholm.—The American bombing of the Ploesti oil field forced Romania to suspend all oil exports, according to a statement today by Nicolae Buzesti, chief of the Romanian Foreign Department's commercial bureau. Buzesti, who arrived in Stockholm en route from Finland, where he signed a new trade agreement, said Romania would get out of the war if it received an honorable offer from the Allies.

Agree "In Principle" to Declaration of Rome As An Open City

London.—A Budapest radio broadcast today by Reuter's said the United States and Great Britain have agreed "in principle" to declaration of Rome as an open city.

The British news agency said the broadcast quoted a Rome correspondent as saying American and British replies to Italian Marshal Pietro Badoglio's plea to spare Rome from further bombings, received at the Vatican, demanded a Vatican guarantee that military objectives would be removed from the capital and that a neutral commission be appointed to control demilitarization of the city.

There has been no announcement by London or Washington. A dispatch from the Italian Stefani news agency reported by Reuter's said Italy has formally advised the United States and Great Britain of the removal of defensive installations in Rome and of orders to anti-aircraft batteries in the neighborhood not to fire on Allied planes.

German Military Forces Occupy Copenhagen

London.—German military forces today completely occupied the Danish capital of Copenhagen, Reuter's reported from Stockholm. A force of at least 50,000 German troops were said to have taken over control of the city as a result of recent strikes, acts of sabotage and clashes between Germans and Danish patriots.

Nazi tanks were said to be patrolling the streets to maintain order after a number of fatalities occurred.

Unrest and sabotage throughout the Nazi-occupied country is assuming greater proportions than ever, according to an item in a Swedish newspaper reported by Reuter's.

WATER CONSUMERS ADVISED TO DRAW DRINKING SUPPLY

Oil From "Big Inch" Break May Reach Here This Afternoon

NO LAWN SPRINKLING

Spring Water for Drinking To Be Available At Wells During This Evening

Thousands of gallons of crude oil poured into the Delaware River yesterday from another break in the Big Inch pipe line about a mile and a quarter north of New Hope, and is expected to reach Bristol today.

The oil had arrived at Morrisville at 10 o'clock this morning and it may be here later during the day or perhaps not until four a. m. tomorrow, according to Borough Engineer John S. Roberts, Jr. Mr. Roberts said that the tide was running up this morning, and this would naturally hold the oil back.

As a precautionary measure, however, Mr. Roberts advises, all consumers of water supplied by the Bristol Water Department to draw a sufficient supply for drinking purposes for at least two days. Mr. Roberts frankly stated that he did not know positively whether the oil would affect the water here or not. He was rather inclined to believe that it would not. However, he advises that every precaution be taken.

"We draw our water from nine feet below the surface," said Mr. Roberts, "and the natural tendency of the oil at this point in the river would be to rise up onto the surface of the water; but still we should take all precautionary measures."

The oil reached Trenton at midnight and was still passing the Trenton intakes at 10 o'clock this morning. The oil reached opposite Morrisville's intake.

Mr. Roberts also advised that the use of lawn sprinklers be discontinued until further notice, so that what water is in storage will be available for domestic purposes. "This is a very necessary step on the part of the consumers," said Mr. Roberts.

Spring water from the borough's two artesian wells, west of the railroad on tracks of land recently purchased by the borough to develop as a source of water supply, will be available to the public this evening, if they take bottles to have filled. Residents desiring to go to the wells and procure a supply for drinking purposes may do so this evening, as Mr. Roberts has made arrangements to have someone there to give out the supply.

It was the third leak in the line in eastern Pennsylvania since it was put into operation about two weeks ago.

The Delaware was covered for more than a mile near the break. Although workmen were rushed to the spot, oil gushed into the river for six hours.

The leak was discovered early yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Melson, of Watercrest Springs Farms. They were returning from New York when they saw the oil spreading over River road near their home.

The leak occurred on the church property of St. Phillip's Chapel, spread oil to the farm of Chester Magill. From there it ran into Primrose Creek, which runs under the Delaware Canal into the river.

Officials of War Emergency Pipeline, Inc., immediately clamped a censorship on all employees by teletype. They were forbidden to give any information about the leak. It is known, however, the only leaks that have developed in the Big Inch have been in the extension from Phoenixville, Pa., to the point at which the line crosses the Delaware near New Hope.

Only yesterday did an emergency crew finish burning off escaped oil from a previous break last Thursday.

WHEN DOCTORS AGREE

Prof. Harold J. Laski of the University of London and Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, were poles apart in their London debate on how to assure high levels of production and employment after the war, but agreed on one thing—that democratic governments cannot be maintained after the war unless employment and production are kept on a high level.

Professor Laski favored a planned economy in order to achieve the objective, whereas Mr. Johnston contended that prosperity and a lasting peace were possible only with freedom of private enterprise. Regardless of the variance of their proposals, the fact remains that governments—prodded by ambitious politicians—are likely to resort to a policy of planned economy if employment opportunities and production are not considered adequate after the war. Americans need not be reminded what happened during the recent depression.

As Americans grow optimistic with the receipt of more encouraging news from the war fronts, they must be warned against believing that the end of the war will bring Utopia. It is then that the country will face a stupendous task. If private industry is to furnish all the postwar employment expected, the time for planning in this realm is now. And there should be cooperation, but cooperation only, by the government.

Unless plans are made by private industry in adequate measure before the war ends, the nation may see another shift in government policies, a shift that will take the country still farther from its traditional course.

THE WOLF IS REAL

There has been so much publicity about the shortage of newsprint that some readers may assume it is the old cry of "Wolf!" Unfortunately, it is the real thing and always has been. Only it is getting worse.

A House subcommittee investigating the shortage of pulpwood from which newsprint is made reports that unless production can be stepped up, a 30 per cent cut in newsprint will be the prospect for 1944. And this is in addition to the 10 per cent already in force.

There are only two measures which could ease the situation materially. One is a cut in paper consumption by government departments and bureaus. The other is an increase in woodcutters, perhaps through enlistment of the services of war prisoners, woodsmen and deferred farmers.

The prospect is far from encouraging, and readers must be prepared for a probable curtailment in the number of pages of their newspapers.

U. S. war expenditures in July decreased 12 per cent from the June figure, which is a reminder that government expenditures that go up must come down—and how.

The production front is just as important to victory as the fighting front. In order to keep up production of Plexiglas, Crystalite, Lethane, Primal, Lykopen and other vital war materials, we must bring in workers from outside areas—and they must have living quarters.

• If you have a spare room for a man or woman in Bristol or vicinity, here is a chance to help the war effort and add to your income at the same time. Phone Bristol 875—ask for Personnel Dept. If you have registered your room with us, be sure to phone us whenever it is vacant, so we can send you a new roomer promptly.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)

Pastor

Bristol Presbyterian Church

O Lord, our God, we know how often we have failed, and how willingly we put aside that which we know we should do in accordance with thy will. Forgive our weakness, forgive our sinfulness. Make us forever dissatisfied with past accomplishments. Make us zealous for the attainment of greater goals for thee. Open our eyes to the eternal truth that thy work is to be done by human hands, and it is only as we consecrate ourselves unto thee that the chaos of the world will be dispelled and peace restored. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

of the Grange, who died in the North African area. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Yoder, Pipersville, are at present members of the Grange.

Scrap books to be sent to those in service will be sponsored by the Home Economics committee, it was decided.

The next meeting of the Grange will be held on September 3rd when birthday night will be observed.

Rudolph Faix, Jr., twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Faix, Sr., Perkaskie, suffered a broken wrist when he jumped from a moving truck. The boy, with a group of North Penn youths, had been picking tomatoes at the farm of William Seidel, Hilltown township.

Mr. Seidel took them to Perkaskie after the day's work and the Faix boy was hurt as the truck was stopping at Main and Walnut streets, Perkaskie.

The Fallsington Boy Scout Troop received its charter at exercises last evening at the Community Hall. The troop from Morrisville installed the Fallsington group. The Rev. Samuel Gaskell, pastor of the Fallsington Methodist Church, presided. Lloyd S. Bucher, South Langhorne, district Scout commissioner, and Robert Hershey, of Doylestown, chairman of the organization, were at the meeting. James McKenna, of Fallsington Heights, is scoutmaster of the local troop.

OUR VICTORY GARDEN

"Man With Hoe" is "Man Behind The Gun"

By Jane Cochran
By Jane Cochran
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

Now is the time when many a new Victory Gardener hovers anxiously over his produce wondering when to harvest the results of his toil. Unfortunately, he's likely to have a tendency to procrastinate too long. He believes that the vegetables should grow larger and larger before they're picked from the vine or uprooted from the soil.

This is a mistake. Right now, agricultural and garden authorities say, is the time to harvest lettuce, Swiss chard, beans, carrots, beets, cabbages and many other vegetables. If you let them grow too large, lettuce, chard, beans and beets will get tough and fibrous. They will also lose their fine flavors. Heads of over-mature cabbage tend to split.

These vegetables should be harvested now. They should be eaten fresh, to enjoy their finest flavor and full vitamin content. Any surplus over and above what is needed for the family table should be preserved right now while the vegetables are in prime condition. If you can't use or can all of your crops, give away the unused portions to friends and neighbors. This is an all-out war effort, in which everybody shares.

Another important reason for harvesting some of your vegetables now, which is the proper time, is to enable you to plant Fall crops which will mature before the killing frosts.

Victory Gardeners who want to get the most out of their gardens will want to follow the early Spring crops with these so-called Fall crops, such as cabbage, cauliflower, brussels sprouts, kale, spinach, endive and even perhaps a few Egyptian tree onions that can be used for scallions very early next Spring.

These onions, by the way, are quite hardy and live out very well. Nine to twelve sets can be planted per foot per row. In some families, only two feet of row would be needed. If your family is unusually fond of these onions, ten to twelve feet, or even more, might meet your needs.

If cabbage is your pet fancy, and if you haven't already put in your Fall crop, do so immediately! Your choice of the variety of cabbage to plant will be determined largely by the way you intend to use the vegetable.

If you and your family enjoy eating it raw or cooked, specialists recommend the Savoy, for its high eating quality. Perhaps you want to make sauer kraut. In that case it would be better to select Glory Enkhuizen or Flat Dutch.

ON THE SCREENS

RITZ THEATRE
Laughter and romance in the face of emergency, in bustling wartime Washington, enlivens what is literally the cross section of a woman's soul in "The War Against Mrs. Hadley," now playing at the Ritz Theatre, and presenting Fay Bainter as the prototype of many American women who tried vainly to avoid being enmeshed in war conditions until their awakening came. The story revolves about Mrs. Hadley, wealthy socialite, who when the war starts, tries, although she is not unopinionated, to live her life as before, amid changing conditions.

BRISTOL THEATRE
An outstanding double feature is presented today at the Bristol Theatre. The greatest of all of Bogart's hits, "The Maltese Falcon," with Mary Astor, Peter Lorre and Sidney (Pat) Man, Greenstreet is currently showing with the companion feature hit, "Rookies on Parade" featuring Bob Crosby and his orchestra.

so much liking for cauliflower, six to nine plants of Snowball will be enough. A larger family with increased desire or tastes for this vegetable will prefer 12 to 15. Snowball is the leading variety, and is sold under many names.

Cauliflower is spaced 16 to 20 inches in the row, with from 32 to 36 inches between rows. It needs fertilizer as mentioned for cauliflower, but more of it.

Golden Glow Rennet-Custard
1 rennet tablet
1 tablespoon cold water
1 pint milk, not canned
7 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/3 cup apricot pulp
2 stewed or canned apricots
1 egg white

Cut the apricots into strips and divide among dessert glasses. Make rennet-custard according to directions in package. Pour over apricots. When ready to serve, beat egg white until stiff. Add 4 tablespoons of sugar and apricot pulp. Beat thoroughly together. Put apricot whip on top of each dish of rennet-custard and decorate with bits of apricot.

May Day Rennet-Custard
1 package orange or lemon rennet powder
1/4 cup thick unsweetened prune puree
1 pint milk, not canned
2-3 marshmallows
Few chocolate decorations

Make rennet-custard according to directions on package, adding prune puree to warmed milk. Chill.

Perhaps you intend to store some of your cabbage for late use. Then you should choose a very hard-headed type, such as Penn State or Reed's Short Stem or Danish Ball-head.

Just how many of these plants should the Victory Gardener put in? The answer depends on the size of the family. A small family would probably find three to six plants of Savoy, six to twelve plants of Glory for kraut making, and about the same number for storage sufficient. The smaller number of plants is advised if facilities for storage and preparing of sauer kraut are limited.

On the other hand, if you have unlimited facilities, the number should be increased to meet the needs of the family over a longer period of time. Good-sized plants should be used, of course, and fertilizer should be applied to your soil. The plants should be placed 15 to 18 inches apart in the row, and from 30 to 36 inches between rows.

With cauliflower, as with cabbage, the tastes of the family should be considered first. Cauliflower, like spinach, is a controversial vegetable. Either you like it very much—or you don't like it at all. For a small family, with not then serve. Top rennet-custard with cut out marshmallow petals, arranged as a flower and centered with chocolate decorations.

day in Doylestown township. More than 20,000 gallons of crude were destroyed to eliminate a fire hazard. As they were burning the oil, with fire companies from nearby communities standing by to prevent any spread, they were summoned to repair the new break.

State police from the Doylestown barracks stood guard yesterday to warn motorists along the River road of the danger from the oil-slicked surface. The road has a dangerous curve near the break, which is about 15 feet from the roadbed.

Grounds of the Holmquist School, private institution for girls, also were flooded with the escaping crude oil.

TWO TEAMS BATTLE FOR FIRST PLACE IN SUBURBAN LEAGUE

Rohm & Haas Nine Will Play Voltz Team At Maple Beach

ASSURED OF TIE

Both Teams Have Won Seven Games and Lost Three

BRISTOL SUBURBAN LEAGUE
Schedule for Tonight
VOLTZ-TEXACO - ROHM & HAAS
(Maple Beach field)

	won	lost	%
Rohm & Haas	7	3	.700
Voltz-Texaco	7	3	.700
Diamond	5	6	.455
Hunter's	2	9	.182

The battle for first place in the Bristol Suburban League will take place tonight on the Maple Beach field as the Rohm and Haas nine meets Voltz-Texaco. Both teams have won seven and lost three and as this is the closing week of twilight ball, tonight's victor will be assured of at least a tie in the final standing.

It is most likely that the opposing hurlers for the tilt will be "Eddie" Sullivan for the chemical workers and "Howie" Black for the easoleers. If Black does not hurl for the Voltz team then it is most likely that Hal Shackleton will get the call.

Vince Stratton will be behind the plate for Voltz-Texaco while Manager Jesse Vanant will do the receiving for Rohm and Haas.

After the game there will be a meeting of the circuit in the St. Ann's club-house. Plans for the playoff series will be discussed.

some candies. Fred Devenney gets some Dixie cups and pours us some pineapple juice.

"One thing I'm always going to carry in my fighter plane—a can of pineapple juice," says Fred. "Just love the stuff."

Fred's thinking about the war again now. An hour ago he was thinking about something else.

"I'll have to observe my first wedding anniversary overseas," he said then.

"I had to do the same thing last year," I told him. "But I was home for my second one—maybe you'll be, too."

Fred graduated in engineering from the University of Nebraska and worked as a plant engineer for a packing company before joining the air corps.

"Thought you would have joined the Corps of Engineers," I tell him.

"Could have gotten a commission in the engineers but there was a special reason for joining the air corps," he grins. "My dad was a major in the air service in the last war—he's in again this time."

ing the joke of the New Deal permanently on our necks. Faced with the possibility of such disaster, Republicans dare not allow themselves to be stampeded.

A decade ago our country reached a parting of the ways. The road to the left along which the New Deal has been leading us is a broad highway paved with glowing promises and easy money for those who will not work. It descends rapidly into totalitarianism. For, call it what you will, it ends in a state whose citizens have been transformed into puppets, with Federal politicians pulling the strings.

This is a very real and threatening fact. The New Deal has made its goal plain. That goal is a highly centralized state in which the executive completely dominates the legislative and judicial branches of government—a state in which the most intimate personal and business affairs of individuals are controlled and managed by public officials, who are neither chosen by nor responsible to the people they govern.

Under color of the war emergency we have been given a taste of this new concept of government. It is not palatable. We are now engaged in a life and death struggle with Nazism and Fascism, primarily because of our abhorrence of this sort of tyranny. Yet we have been following the same road along which Hitler and Mussolini led the German and Italian people to ultimate disaster.

It will be hard for us to retrace our steps. But we must do so if we would resume our pursuit of happiness along the route mapped out by our forefathers. The road to the right has always been a difficult pathway, broken here and there by wide depressions which we must struggle to cross. But the end of the road lies at the crest of a hill on which we may breathe the pure air of freedom and see our own destiny spread out before us within our grasp.

JOHNNY ADAMS
LEADING JOCKEY OF THE AMERICAN TURF

"JOHNNY WAS THE COUNTRY'S TOP JOCKEY IN 1937 AND 1938. HE REGAINED HIS LAURELS LAST YEAR AND IS IN A GOOD POSITION TO FINISH ON TOP FOR 1943."

As Republicans and as Americans we demand the right to express at the polls whether or not we shall retrace our steps and pursue once more the American way. But we will not be able to do this unless the Republican party in its platform and through its leaders becomes a real party of loyal opposition to the alien philosophy of the present Administration.

Pressing Domestic Problems

We must be given the opportunity to cast our vote for representatives who will reclaim from the executive the law-making powers which the Congress has surrendered; who will insist that the Federal Judiciary act solely as an impartial and independent arbiter to defend the rights of citizens against encroachments of the state; who will see to it that the people's chosen representatives resume their mastery over the public purse and limit the borrowing, lending and spending power of Federal corporations to such purposes as Congress may authorize.

We must be given the opportunity to vote for men who will respect the autonomy of the several States and require the assent of the Senate to all international agreements that bind the American people; men who will strike the shackles of bureaucratic red tape from our limbs; who will repeal confiscatory taxes, put an end to the waste of public funds and condemn all those who foster class hatreds or promote envy and covetousness.

We will never have the chance to do these things if the Willie internationalists succeed in making questions of foreign policy or world reconstruction the principal issues of the coming presidential campaign.

I do not wish to be understood as suggesting that the Republican party should have no foreign policy. Post-war problems demand the most thoughtful study. We should seek the views and objectives of all the nations at war against the Axis. We should attempt to work out a practical program, satisfactory to all concerned, a program in the carrying out of which all should bear their proportionate share.

But Republicans ought not to commit themselves to any specific formula for the future. We do not yet know what the conditions of the world will be when peace comes. We do not yet know what we ourselves will then be able to contribute to world reconstruction.

Preserving Our Freedom

All that Republicans may honestly say at this time is that they wish America to do what it may to restore a peaceful, prosperous and friendly world. Our country will not be able to play a useful role when peace comes unless it first proves that it can solve its own domestic problems through the democratic process under the rules of our written Constitution.

All is lost if we do not preserve our own freedom. And so, we must safeguard our priceless heritage of responsible private enterprise and individual initiative, and defend the right to acquire and retain the fruits of our labor as private property. These are the things which have made it possible for the United States to become the great arsenal of democracy. They are the things that will enable us to do our part in aiding the needy everywhere.

For these reasons I feel compelled to say: If we let the Willie internationalists have their way, the Republican party, instead of having a platform on which it can run a successful race, will have built a scaffold on which the liberties of the American citizens are likely to be hanged.

this year it was announced that Henry J. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilder, had been named chairman of the board. In taking over the management, Kaiser replaced C. A. Van Dusen, the corporation president, with Riebel, then a retired former official of the Westinghouse Electric Co.

Rear Admiral S. M. Kraus, of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, stated that Kaiser's assumption of control "has the complete endorsement of the Navy Department."

Bruce Earl, vice president of the union local, flatly denied that a strike exists at the plant.

"We just all quit work; we are not working for Brewster any more," he said.

Asked why the workers "quit," he replied: "Only because the guards were arrested and taken into custody. We in the union feel that although they are Coast Guard Reservists, they have the same seniority and other rights of all our members. Our quarrel, in fact, is not with the Coast Guard, but with the company, which apparently does not recognize that the guards have these rights."

Riebel, who has complete charge of production, said in a statement that "it appeared that approximately 90 per cent of the workers were reluctant to leave their work." Thirty percent of the total were women, he said.

"Hundreds," he said, "appealed to foremen and other Brewster officials for protection in the event they decided to rebel against the action of their shop stewards. Almost 300 personally appealed to me, but I explained to the workers that the matter was out of my control, since the Brewster guards were members of the Coast Guard Police, and therefore under the jurisdiction of the U. S. Coast Guard."

Riebel went on to say that he told the workers that he was "anxious that there should be no work stoppage but, at the same time, I pointed out that I had no control over any stand taken by the union."

Plant and union officials agreed that the guards' arrest was due to their refusal to take their posts because they could not choose their own beats on a seniority basis, in their role of union members.

Riebel said that 13 guards—part of a group of 265 at the plant who had been sworn in as reservists two weeks ago—reported to Lieutenant (jg) George L. Layman, U. S. C. G. R., who was a former captain of guards at the plant, for assignments at 7 a. m.

All 13, Riebel said, refused to take their posts "as ordered," and were placed under arrest, but when the orders "were re-read to them, nine decided to take their posts. Four refused, and these four were taken into custody."

The Navy Public Relations Office here said the four were Fred Darling, Richard Bell, Kenneth Bodine and Robert Spratt.

A spokesman for the office added: "The refusal of men in a military organization to perform duties legally assigned by their superior officers constitutes a violation of the oath of allegiance, and in time of war cannot be overlooked. Insofar as the Navy is concerned, that is the only issue involved. The men have been placed under arrest, pending further investigation and pending such action as the circumstances may warrant."

Union officials said the walkout occurred "without our knowledge." The company, however, claimed that "when word of the arrests reached the workers, the shop committee and union stewards met" and later went through the plant, "calling out the production workers."

The War at A Glance

attack on Berlin and raids on other objectives in northern Germany.

While the British bombers continued the current aerial war on Europe, German raiders struck during the night at English coastal districts and East Anglia. Five of the raiders were shot down. Slight damage was reported but there were no casualties listed.

In Russia, fresh Red Army triumphs along a 175-mile front emphasized the importance of the liberation yesterday of Kharkov, key to the south-central front.

The whole German southern front appeared to be crumbling as victorious Russian forces crashed through broken Nazi defense lines in the Donets basin, 165 miles southeast of Kharkov. The Soviets surged forward in a headlong advance towards the Dnieper River ranging up to 22 miles. Hundreds of thousands of Germans, threatened with encirclement, in their flight abandoned 35 populated places and left behind thousands of dead and huge stores of war material.

Immediately west of Kharkov, the Nazis threw large forces of tanks and infantry into a stubborn battle to keep an escape corridor open for German forces retreating after evacuation of the city. A particularly heavy tank battle was reported racing along the road to Poltava. Seventy miles southeast of Kharkov, Russian units striking southward from Izium smashed repeated German counter-attacks in a drive to cut the enemy's main railroad line of retreat at Slaviansk.

From the southwest Pacific, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced that Allied ground troops approaching Salamaua are battling the retreating Japanese defenders at the western approaches to the airbase serving that enemy base in New Guinea.

American and Australian troops today were reported within less than four miles of Salamaua after crossing the Francisco River, last war's barrier before the Japanese base. To the rear, other ground forces mopped up enemy stragglers near Komiatum, last of the fallen outer defenses of Salamaua. Meanwhile Allied warplanes continued to bomb the besieged enemy stronghold as well as other New Guinea Jap bases at Finschhafen, Mariwasa and Rooke Island. Finschhafen also was bombarded during the night by Allied naval surface craft.

The Allied communique reported no new developments in the ground fighting in the Solomons, but said light naval craft attacked barge hideouts in Kula Gulf and on the southern coast of Kolombangara Island.

A delayed dispatch from United States Air Force headquarters in China announced that Liberators bombers shot down at least 35 of an intercepting force of more than 50 new-type Zeros Saturday during a heavy raid on the important port of Hankow in occupied China.

Milk Commission To Hold Hearing

The Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission has announced that it will conduct a public hearing in the "New" Court Room in the Court House of Lehigh County, Fifth and Hamilton streets, Allentown, beginning at 10:30 a. m., Eastern War Time, Friday, September 3, 1943.

The hearing will be concerned with all conditions affecting the production, marketing and distribution of milk and milk products in Milk Marketing Area No. 6, the Lehigh Milk Marketing Area, which consists of all cities, incorporated boroughs and townships lying within the boundaries of the Counties of Monroe, Northampton and Lehigh; that part of Bucks County bounded on the southwest by Montgomery County, on the northwest by Lehigh County and Northampton County, respectively, on the northeast by the Delaware River and on the southeast by, and including the townships of Upper Makefield, Warrenton, Warwick and Wrightstown in Bucks County; and the Incorporated Boroughs of East Greenville, Greenlane, Pennsburg, Red Hill, Souderton and Telford and the Townships of Franconia, Marlboro, Salford and Upper Hanover, lying within the boundaries of Montgomery County.

Any person desiring a change in this area either to take in more territory, or to change the area in any way, should so testify at the hearing.

Producers and consumers of milk and dealers and handlers are invited to appear at the hearing for the purpose of presenting whatever testimony may be pertinent to the welfare of the milk industry in this section of Pennsylvania.

New Tire "Ceiling" Price Not Real "Ceiling" Price

The new-tire "ceiling" price doesn't come within stretching distance of the real "ceiling," as many qualified buyers have found upon presenting their ration credentials to tire dealers, the Keystone Automobile Club declares.

OPA omitted Federal taxes and an additional 16 per cent allowed dealers under the "Dealer Tire Return Plan" in publishing the ceiling prices, according to the Club, with the result that the actual cost of a rationed tire is greatly in excess of the amount the purchaser expected to pay.

In a letter to Prentiss Brown, OPA Administrator, Keystone asked for explanation of the 16 per cent charge. An answer just received from Lester V. Chandler, Price Executive of the Rubber Price Branch of OPA, gives the explanation as follows:

It seems that the "Dealer Tire Return Plan" was inaugurated after Pearl Harbor to "relieve small dealers of the burden of holding large inventories of new passenger car tires during the period of slow turnover under the rationing plan. OPA and the Defense Supplies Corporation collaborated on the plan. Tires sold by dealers to manufacturers and mass distributors at a 10 per cent advance over list were then resold to the Defense Supplies Corporation, which, in turn, resold them back to manufacturers and mass distributors for distribution

CAMOUFLAGE BANDAGES IN DESERT WARFARE

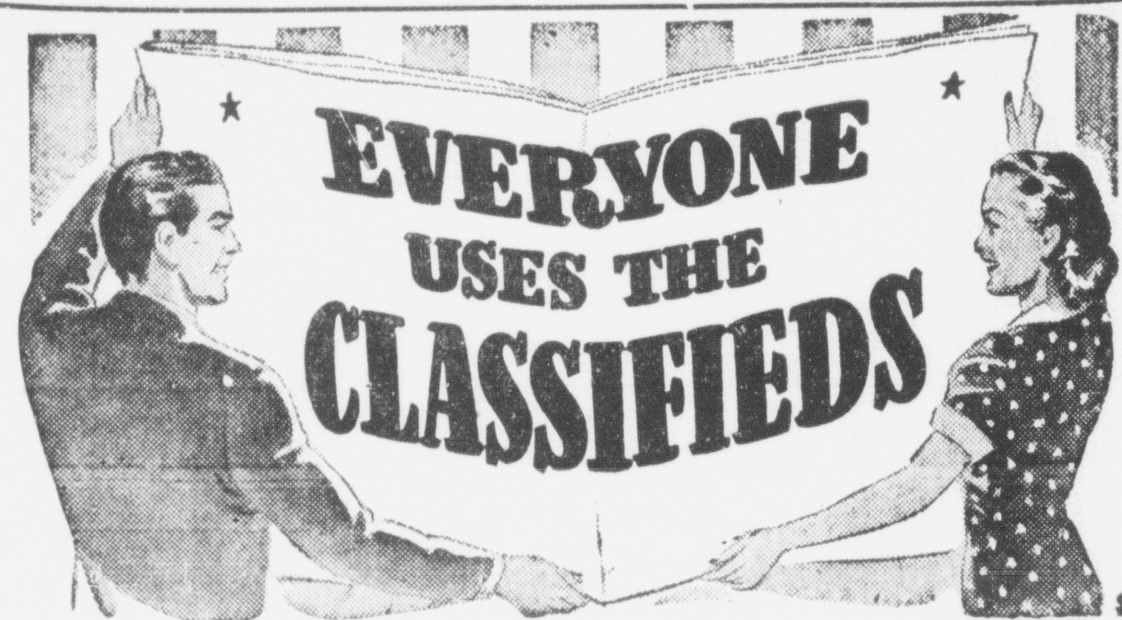

By International News Service
ATLANTA, Ga.—(INS)—Records at Headquarters Fourth Service Command today revealed that the bandages for wounded soldiers in desert warfare are now dyed olive drab.

Since these bandages must be applied to open wounds, a specially prepared dye that will not cause infection or allergy is required.

It was pointed out that the white bandages, formerly used, could be spotted miles away by enemy planes.
